- From the multi-image introductory show to the breathtaking finale, the Universe of Energy is a fast-paced exploration of the forces that fuel our lives — and the universe itself.

Guests "ride on sunshine," as "traveling theater cars" powered by a rooftop array of solar cells take them on an energy odyssey — from the Earth's beginnings to the formation of fossil fuels to the energy alternatives in our future. Along the way, discover a primeval forest complete with battling dinosaurs, earthquakes and an erupting volcano. Then travel on to the Epcot Energy Information Center, where today's emerging energy sources are revealed on a 210-foot wrap-around screen. Finally, the "Universe of Energy" itself comes to life in an "electrifying" presentation on Energy's impact on 20th-century life.

Through the wonders of micro- and macro-photography, never-before-seen images of today's world unfold on the world's largest motion picture screen.

Then it's off to explore four future habitats — the urban environment of tomorrow, a robotics-staffed desert farm, a working ocean colony, and a "space city" where asteroid mining and zero-gravity crystal manufacture are facts of everyday life.

The rest of the adventure is up to you! You and your fellow passengers control which future environment to explore as you choose your own "new Horizon" for the finale.

Add depth to your pictures by "framing" the subject with a foreground object such as an arch or tree branch.

To capture some of the details of exhibits, move in close. With the close-up setting on some Kodak disc cameras you can get as close as 18 inches.

Personalize pictures of attractions by including friends or family members in the foreground.

To help make a complete picture story, take photographs at the "photo spot" signs throughout Epcot Center. You can make title pictures by photographing identifying signs.

If you have a 35mm camera, photograph outdoor subjects after sundown and indoor subjects using fast films such as KODACOLOR VR 400 Film (set exposure meter at 400) and KODACOLOR VR 1000 Film (set exposure meter at 1000).
